Now that Mayor Taggart has signed the law compelling hats, caps and bonnets to law compelling hats, caps and bonnets to at their home on Cherry street Wednesday be removed at all theaters, the bill is evening. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Miss Martha Par-Grand Opera House Friday evening there were only two hats worn, and at the Park Theater every hat was off. There were some mild protests when the ordinance like the summer breezes. There are many women who prefer to have something on the head, and just at present the milliners are studying some fashion that will make a headdress to avoid or evade the ordinance. There is the Alsatian bow and there are flowers, coronets and bandeaux and dozens of pretty things to wear, giving an opportunity for some pretty styles of hair dressing. Since women have been wearing their hats for any and all occasions, it even being the style to keep on the hat during a luncheon, there has not been so much attention paid to dressing the hair, except for evening. If a lady is (she never knows whether it is really informal or not) she wears her big hat. On her hat, there is consternation, for "my hair is not fixed to take off my hat." At a company not very long ago, the guests | B. B. Pettijohn. were seated at tables for refreshments and the hostess had asked that the hats be quence was," said one of those attending the company, "you never saw such a looking lot of hair dressing in your life." It may be that the new law will not only be a benefit to the theater attendants, but it may make a revolution in the careful arrangement of nature's own adornment for

St. Valentine's Day.

There is to be an unusual number of companies to celebrate the day of this saint of lovers, and the celebration of the anniversary is to be spread over the 13th, 14th and 15th, on account of the real day coming next Sunday. There will be meetings of the Katherine Merrill, the Sketching, the Magazine and the Rosemary Clubs. Mrs. F. C. Gardner and her sister, Miss Davis, will give a large reception, Mrs. John F. Carson will give a luncheon, Mrs. J. S. Anderson will give a children's party for Joe Stanley and Jamie Harold Anderson, and there will be a children's valentine party at the Propylaeum, given by the Rector's Aid Society of Christ Church. The King's Daughters of Plymouth Church will give a tea and sale at the home of Mrs. Charles Garrard, on Broadway, all Saturday afternoon. In the church parlors the Christian Endeavor of the First Presbyterian Church will give a valentine so-cial Friday evening. One of the events of the week in preparation for St. Valentine's day will be the fair to be held Wednesday afternoon and evening by the ladies of Meridian-street Church. There are to be valentine, dinner and luncheon cards, pictures of several kinds and designs, blotters and scrap envelopes made or decorated by Mr. R. B. Gruelle, Mrs. Alice Ross Hadley, Mrs. E. Jacoby, Miss Leah Fletcher, Mrs. J. W. Piercy, Miss Sellick, Miss Laura Scott and Miss Eunice Jameson. The fair is to be open from 2 to 11 e'clock.
